

DWIGHT BISCHEL

Dwight Bischel is a graduate of Northwestern University. He had a long career in broadcast and corporate television, with jobs that included directing Burr Tillstrum's "Kukla and Ollie Report". A producer/director at NBC, ABC, WFLD and Ameritech, Dwight won two Emmy Awards and is a director member of the Director's Guild of America. Through Greenleaf Graphics, he produced and directed two historical documentaries currently shown at the DeSoto House Hotel in Galena.

Also a dedicated photographer, he was a freelance photographer for the Evanston Review, exhibited at Chicago's Museum of Natural History (Field Museum) and won several awards at International Exhibition of Nature Photography exhibits. He maintained a color darkroom until the advent of digital photography, when he computerized his photo and video operations. Dwight Bischel takes inspiration from all over the world, - Galena included - for his striking still photographs.
